THE STANDARD YARDSTICK.

Years of Study and Experiments Were Necessary to Produce It.

"People who handle the yardstick have but little idea of the years of study and experiments that were necessary to secure the standard yard measure," observed an official of the coast survey

"Bitd a famous scientist, made the first standard vard in 1760, but the English government did not legalize it until 1824 Ten years afterward, when the house of parliament in London was destroyed by fire, the stand ard yard was lost, and England was again without a standard yard of Sheepsbanks next made a standard measure, which the Luclish government adopted and so that it could not be again destroyed by fire, four authorized copies were made of it. WHAT MAKES SUCCESS.

It's the Man, Not the Job-There Arc Possibilities In Everything.

"We are forever going to begin work in earnest tomorrow said Mr Stay bolt, 'and we are never sitisfied with the job we've got and we purform the labor involved in it in only a half heart ed manner, but we are going to work in dead earnest when we get a job to suit us

"The fact is that tomorrow, when we get to it, will be to us as today is to us now, we shant feel any more like And that other job, when we come in actual contact with it and see it close at hand, won't suit us any bet ter than the one we've got now does "The truth is that we are dandlers and shy of work and trying to get along just as easy as we can. We hate to pitch in and go at things

The time for us to work is new, not tomorrow, and the job for us to collar is the one we've got. Round that up in style, do the work completely and thor oughly, and you ll be assembled to find how you'll bring it out and what chances there are in it. And every body that knows about your work or is in any way concerned or affected by it, as it is done well or all, will be de ighted to see it well done-everybody likes to see a job, whatever it is, well done-and pleased with the doer, and there's money in it every time

An Exciting Adventure.

I had an exciting adventure while I was engaged in superintending the laving down of water pipes in Queens land After work was done for the day I went up the surveyed course for the pipes to see that it had been cleared for the digging of trenches next day The pipes, buge iron tubes two feet in diameter, lay scattered about I was alone, but suddenly I heard a tremendous roar, and looking up saw a great hard of cattle stampeding down upon me Before I could get out of their way they would be upon me so I crawled into one of the pipes

On came the thunder of thousands of hoofs, and then a mass of loaring, maddened cattle swept past my place of refuge Scores of them stumbled over the pipe in which I lay, and those which fell were trampled to death

When the held had a sed I crept out and found seven do a cattle about the pipe -Stray Storics

BRYAN AND THE PLATFORM.

It may be said without exaggeration or successful contradiction that no orator who has spoken upon or discussed the topics that are before the people for settlement has been more strong or more logical in his utterance upon public matters than William Jennings Bryan. His physical endurance and mental personality in the compaign of 1396 were subjects discussed by the people. Those who through the newspopers followed him in his talks and speeches during the canvasa expressed surprise at the wonderful gifts of oratory possessed by the man. The talks and speeches made by him from the time the National Democratic Convention made him the presidential candidate of his party to the close or the canvass were more in number than have been made in a like time by any American who has discussed public issues before the people.

No political speaker has been more consistent, more 'ruthful, more fair or more logical in his arguments than Mr. Bryan. He could not have spoken upon the tames presented by man for discussion in the little platform made by the Chicago Convention or upon the themes given in the big Democratio pistform made by the Creat r of man at the beginning, unless he spoke trath and nothing but truth. As ne went over the land disclosing the trath the opposition press of the country was silent before him, Mam mon feeling secure in its then more potent argument in millions, did not even falsely accuse him. It was during the campaign a source of wonder to many, who continued to ask the question-"Why is it that Mr. Bryan can say so much and not a peat any subject matter by him praviously presented?" If those filled with amazement at the wonderful capacity of Mr. Bryan had been fully informed upon the size of the subject the orator was dealing with, their astenishment would have been tempered with the satisfaction that while Mr. Bryan was not equal to the size of his subject, he was capable of disposing of all he could handle in a very efficient and logical way. Mr. Bryan, when the campaign closed, had | Calies, George not entered upon the subject included in the platforms. A few detached Crozier, Arthur crumbs that were lying at the outer edges of the great theme in hand were presented for consideration, because Gariner, D M the time at the disposal of the grater Hensen, A D the time at the disposal of the orator would not admit of anything more. The theme included in the platforms Hunkins, Carl B of the campaign of 1896, and that must be included in all future platforms of the Democratic party if it remains true to the people and its trust, is as broad as the universe, as high as heaven, and as large and abiding as Bluther, Mrs J L eternity.

It will be remembered that Mr. Bryan, to support his arguments, quoted the language of President Lincoln, President Jefferson and others of the great and good men of the country, without distinction as to political party alignment. He quoted from the Old and New Testaments and quoted generally the works and utterances of good men, without reference to creed, religion or political condition. Wherever truth, humanity and purity could be seen and learned, there, and there only, was Mr. Bryan doing work.

The theme presented by the Democratic party in its 1896 platforme, and which will be again presented in its platforms of 1900, is the rights of mana theme that equals in size and grandeur all there is mentioned in this article. We may as well understand the size of the contention of the Demporatic party; it will aid us no doubt in clearing up to our understanding the ability of Colonel Bryan to talk forever, if opportunity is presented the orator, without repeating anything he has previously mentioned. The rights of man against man and Mammon is and will be the theme of the world, and in our own country will be the chief battle-ground for the larger part of the next century, and at the close of the contention the rights of man will have prevailed against man and of law is that "the first taker takes it all, to the exclusion of the disinberited mob of consumers, who have nothing to gain, even if given an honest probate." For if a tariff for protection in excess of revenue is constitutional, its pampered offsprings are equally city. legitimate, Hence the talk about "oriminal trusts," as is the denunciation of them by the Republican party which legalized them.

Syndicates are said to be buying up the silver bullion in America. They propose to combine with English silver buyers and put the price up to 90 cents an ounce.--Exchange.

The impression has been prevaling for some time that typhoid fever is raging in Reno, and that city physicians have their bands full in waiting on patients who are stricken down with the dread disease.

This is not true. In fact, there is less typhoid in Reno than there has been in recent previous years. Only eight or nine cases have occurred this season, and this in a town of 6,000 inhabitants is a very low percentage.

A few cases of mularial fever have come under the physicians observation, but on the whole Reno is so healthy that doctors are tempted to seek a more sickly district.

On the Verge,

He considered it a parental duty to see that his daughter kept only the very best marriageable company.

"Mary," said her father, "you have been going with that Mitchell fellow for more than a year now. This courtship must come to a termination.'

"Oh, pa, how can you talk so? He is, oh, so sweet and nice!" "Ah!" And the fond father arched his eyebrows. "Sweet and nice, eh? Has he proposed?" "Well, pa, not exactly," And the girl hung her head and fingered the drapery of her dress. "He hasn't exactly proposed; but, then, last evening, when we were out walking, we passed by a pice little house, and he said, That's the kind of cottage I am going to live in some day,' and I said 'Yes,' and then he glanced at me and squeezed my hand. Then, just as we got by, I glanced back at the cottage, and—and I squeezed his hand, pa."

Thrashing a King,

During the Ashanti campaign there was a grotesque exhibition of a native policeman's indifference to the "divinity that doth hedge a king." General Colley, then the major commanding the transport column, writing to his sister, describes how one monarch had his foolishness driven out of him by 'the rod of correction." He says:

I am afraid one's idea of the majesty 'that doth enshroud a king' is not exalted in this country. At one station on my way down I heard arow in camp during the night and the next morning sent to inquire what it was. A native police corporal of mine, a first rate fellow, came up and saluted.

"Heard row in Mankassin camp last night, sir. Found king making great noise, gambling with his subjects. Very bad form, sir. Gave king great thrashing, sir."

Disappointing Effect.

"I hope you are getting good results from the gymnastic exercises I recommended," said Mr. Pneer's medical ad-

"Well, I'm not," replied Mr. Pneer. "They have ruined a good coat for me."

"Didn't you take your coat off?" "Certainly, but the exercise has enlarged my shoulders so I can't wear it any more. Coat was as good as new too!"-Chicago Tribune.

Where They Went,

The professor was demolishing (as he believed) Darwin and his theories a task which he frequently engaged in -when he triumphantly wound up with the question: "If we are monkeys, where are our tails?" The lecturer, who had been speaking his full hour, was startled to hear in reply from one of the audience: "We have sat on them so lon they are worn off." This is the greatest dairy country in the world, yet in some of the older European countries two or three times as much milk and cheese are consumed per capita as in the United States.
